

Catching a Tiger fish on fly is widely considered to be the pinnacle of freshwater fly fishing and the months of September through to November offer the best conditions in the lower regions of the Zambezi River. Our in-house expert, Ben McCarthy will lead each clinic and with a ratio of two anglers per boat you'll be assured of optimal attention from your guide. Whilst cover over 40 km of the Zambezi River, hippo, buffalo, elephants and a vast array of birds are sure to catch your attention. Clinics are ideally suited to groups of 2 – 6 anglers. With additional guides from Tourette Fishing, up to 10 rods can be accommodated. We practice a strict Catch & Release policy.

Zimbabwe born and raised Ben McCarthy has been passionate about fly fishing from a young age. Understanding the conditions whilst on the water is paramount to a successful expedition, but for Ben the excitement starts with preparing the flies and tackle before you set off for any fishing destination. As part of our management team, Ben has been instrumental in training our angling guides to a professional fly guiding level. His enthusiasm is contagious and you have to prepare yourself for long days out on the water.
